

Notes on Contributors

Corina-Mihaela BELEAUA received her undergraduate degree in English and French Language and Literature from Babeş-Bolyai University, Cluj-Napoca, Romania. She holds an M.A. from the same university in Intercultural Dialogue and Francophone Studies. Her research interests include Francophone Literature, Translation, Intercultural Studies, Philosophy of Education, and Religion. E-mail: cbeleaua@uga.edu

Ana-Blanca CIOCOI-POP has been a lecturer with the Department of Anglo-American and German studies since 2005. Her area of expertise includes Victorian and modern literature and poetry. She is the author of five volumes focusing on 19th and 20th century British and American literature and is currently at work on a book dwelling upon Jeffrey Eugenides' three major novels. E-mail: anablancaciocoipop@gmail.com

Ioana COSMA is an English lecturer at the Department of Translation belonging to the University of Piteşti. She holds a PhD in Comparative Literature from the University of Toronto on the figure of the angel in Modernist literature. She conducted postdoctoral research at the University of Bucharest on the concept of forgetting in Modern literature and philosophy. She is currently writing a book on the figure of Gradiva in Modernism. Her main areas of investigation are: Modernist literature in English, French and Spanish, Continental philosophy and philosophy and literature. E-mail: ioanacosma@rocketmail.com

Ana-Irina DROBOT graduated from the University of Bucharest in 2006. She was awarded a PhD from the University of Bucharest in 2014 with a thesis titled 'Virginia Woolf and Graham Swift: The Lyrical Novel.' She has been teaching English seminars for 206 East-West Cultural Passage Engineers at the Technical University of Civil Engineering Bucharest since October 2007. E-mail: anadrobot@yahoo.com

Carmen FLORESCU teaches English at "Constantin Brătescu" National Pedagogical High School, Constanța, where she is also a teaching advisor for trainee primary school teachers and English teachers. She holds a Master's degree in Romanian Studies (2004) from Ovidius University of Constanța and is currently a PhD student at the same university, with a thesis on "The Other Ovid: Disruptive Mythology and Topography in Early Modern English Drama." Among her publications, mention should be made of "The Orient within in Western Imagination: Ovid, Shakespeare and the Mutilation of Women" published in Polifonii culturale: Limba, cultura și civiliza ia turcă în lume. Studii de caz, edited by Lăcrămioara Berechet, Alina Buzatu, Estella Ciobanu and Neriman Hasan, 2016. E-mail: carmennflorescu@gmail.com

Eric GILDER is a Professor in the Communications and Development Studies Department at the Papua New Guinea University of Technology (UNITECH) in Lae, PNG. He also serves as an adjunct/consulting professor in the Department of AngloAmerican and German Studies at the "Lucian Blaga" University, Sibiu, holding a Ph.D. in Communication (rhetorical emphasis) from The Ohio State University (USA). Author/editor of several books and multiple academic studies, Professor Gilder has published extensively in Romanian, American and international journals and books on topics of communication (rhetoric, mass media and theory), cultural studies, and international higher educational policy and practice.

Email: egilder57@yahoo.com.

Anca-Luminița IANCU is Assistant Professor in the English Department at Lucian Blaga University of Sibiu, Romania. She received her M. A. in English Literature (2005) and her Ph. D. in East-West Cultural Passage 207 Rhetoric and Composition (2009) from the University of Louisville, KY, U.S.A. Dr. Iancu has published numerous articles on American literature and culture; she is the author of a book on literacy practices of 19th -century European-American immigrant women, a volume of translations of Kate Chopin's short fiction, and several books on English for Specific Purposes. Her research interests include American literature, gender studies, literacy, ethnic studies, and academic writing.

E-mail: ancaian@yahoo.com

Clementina Alexandra MIHĂILESCU is an Associate Professor in the Department Anglo-American and German Studies at the "Lucian Blaga" University, Sibiu. She holds a Ph.D. from the "Lucian Blaga" University, and is interested in stylistics, functional styles, as well as new directions in contemporary English and American literary studies. She has published extensively in Romanian cultural journals and has published textbooks on stylistics, fuzzy grammar and contemporary British novelists.

Email: mihailescuclimentina@yahoo.com.

Anca POPA is a tenured teacher of English at "Andrei Șaguna" National Pedagogical College, Sibiu. She has graduated from Lucian Blaga University of Sibiu earning a B.A. in History and English, and an M.A. in Translation Studies. She is currently a Ph.D. student at the University of Bucharest, her thesis focusing on the construction of gender in Philip Roth's fiction. Her area of research includes 20th - century American Literature, gender studies and ethnic literatures, Jewish-American and Afro-American literature, in particular.

E-mail: anca_popa2009@yahoo.com

Nicolae-Andrei POPA is a PhD student at the Literary and Cultural Studies Doctoral School, University of Bucharest. The title of his thesis is "These Words that Were Spirit'. Spiritual Religion in S.T. Coleridge's Later Thought". He is equally interested in British and American writers such as Henry Fielding, Virginia Woolf, Herman Melville and Don DeLillo. He has been teaching English Practical Courses at the English Department of The Faculty of Foreign Languages, University of Bucharest since 2013.

E-mail: nickpopa25@gmail.com

Dana RADLER recently completed her PhD at the University of Bucharest with a monograph on Memory and Fiction in John McGahern's Works, following an MA in International Relations at the Faculty of Political Science in 2004. She currently teaches at the Bucharest University of Economic Studies. Her present interests combine global issues, memory and Irish studies, with a particular focus on identity, cultural theories, and gender as constructs or de-constructs of modern societies.

E-mail: dana_radler@yahoo.co.uk

Iulia RĂȘCANU is a scholar in Postcolonial and Diaspora Studies co-related with Cultural Studies and 'Third World' Feminist Studies. She approaches issues of hybridity, diasporic subjectivities and postcolonialism in South Asia in connection with literature, film and society. Ms. Rășcanu is a Marie Curie scholarship Alumni and is currently teaching English and communication at the Bucharest University of Economic Studies.
E-mail: iulia.nicole@gmail.com

Daniela VASILOIU is an independent scholar. She has earned a BA from the University of the West, Timișoara, and an MA from Lucian Blaga University of Sibiu. She is currently completing her PhD at Heidelberg University under Professor Vera Nünning, on a dissertation on collaborative narrative in the contemporary British novel. Daniela has been involved with EFL and ESL teaching for many years, and is a certified Cambridge Speaking Examiner.
E-mail: dana_vasiloiu@yahoo.com